Using A.I. Drones on the Border Instead of Building Wall

1. Good - probably the united states can save much more money, It can identify a suspect much faster, and it can help out for most of the borders.
2. Neutral - Helps out the federal agents, for example give them more rest and less night shifts and also can help the federal agents to spend time with their families, etc.
3. Evil- It's evil because they said all this was to have a solution to stop drug trafficking which drones or even the Government aren't going to stop drug trafficking it is to power to be stopped. Also, it can be evil to have drones on the border because you never know if Mexicans can hack the drone or even pay someone from the U.S. to hack the Drones and it can hurt many people.

Why did you choose this?

I choose this because it has some connections to my life because I have family members who try to cross the border illegally and family members that are border patrol agents. which i fear off because you never know if both my family members can be involved in a situation where one of them is crossing the border illegally and the other patrolling the border, while the happens both of them having no idea that they are family members and something bad can happen to one of them or even to both of them. This is why i have fear because my family members can hurt or other people's family members can be hurt as well.

How does the drug war relate to this topic?

The drug war relates to this topic because the drug war has increasingly become a war against immigrant communities. For me there can be at least a answers this question, First, it forces people to migrate, either from being displaced because of the violence or fleeing insecurity in their communities.
